

Contributors

BY SOPHIE TOLIAS

MONIKA BHONDY

You probably recognize her from the popular Monika's Must-Haves pages in ANOKHI magazine. Style Bazaar Editor Monika Bhondy has been with ANOKHI MEDIA from the beginning. As the style guru, she's constantly analyzing trends from the world's runways to best buys on the street and sharing what's hot on her pages. She created the original Holiday Gift Guide and you can find her dishing out style advice at our various events and seminars, in style webisodes on ANOKHI Daily Spotlight TV or on our social media platforms. Speaking of Facebook and Twitter, Bhondy is also the vice president of consumer engagement for ANOKHI MEDIA.

ANOKHI magazine's Fashion Editor, Jacqueline Parrish, has been with the magazine for four years. Parrish has diplomas in magazine and web publishing, fashion design, and apparel production, and is currently attending the University of Toronto to obtain an honours bachelor of science in health and disease. She appreciates the weird, wild and edgy side of fashion and loves all things sparkly. When she's not attending fashion week and other industry-related events in Toronto, she can be found traipsing around the city in fabulous leathers, feathers, furs and platforms.

JACQUELINE PARRISH

PHOTOGRAPHY BY BART SYNOWIEC

MATTHEW CURRIE

ANOKHI magazine readers have seen his byline regularly in our pages since 2009, and now Matthew Currie is the magazine's new Arts & Entertainment Editor. A graduate of the professional writing program at York University, Currie has spent the past four years freelancing. His work has appeared in Sharp, TV Week, CAA's Westworld, BCBusiness, and Collider.com. He's written on numerous topics, but movies remain his personal and professional wheelhouse. He's thrilled to take on this expanded role with the magazine that launched his career and to work alongside ANOKHI magazine's top-notch music, literature, film and TV experts to keep readers in-the-know on all things entertainment.

Previously the GPS Editor for two years, Geeta Wahab, ANOKHI magazine's new Home & Travel Editor, is looking forward to sharing her love of home décor with readers. Wahab is completing her last year at York University as an English major and is also a children's and youth program coordinator and event director for the Jane Finch Youth Film Festival and Visual Arts Exhibition, where underprivileged youth showcase their artwork, network and get inspired. After graduation she's looking forward to working on her first children's book and continuing to give back to her community.

GEETA WAHAB

PHOTOGRAPHY BY ANDY JIBB

SMRUTI DAS

From Toronto to London and New York to Mumbai, ANOKHI magazine's new GPS Editor, Smruti Das, keeps readers in-the-know with details from the hottest parties, soirees, galas and events happening across the globe. Das holds a postgraduate degree in advertising and communication management from the Indira School of Communication in Pune, India, and has worked with top hospitality, media and not-for-profit organizations including Toronto International Film Festival, TBWA, Quadrant Communications and the Swosti Group. A content planner, copy writer and editor, Das has a passion for writing and public speaking. She loves globetrotting, swimming, shopping and Bollywood movies.